TWO MURDER TRIALS AT HARRISONBURG

Israel Monggold, Aged Slayer of His Son, Sent to Grand Jury.

Jury.

Basedal to The Times Dispatch I

HARRISONBURG, VA., November 29—Israel Monggold, the aged slayer of his son, Caper Monggold, in Brock Gap, forty miles northwest of Harrisonburg, two months ago, was to-day placed on relal in the Circuit Court of Rockingham, Judge T. M. Harrison presiding.
He remained unmoved by the serious charge smainst blin, and spot on the floor as the clerk finished reading the charge, and turned with a smile on his face to a seat behind his attorneys. No evidence will be taken until to-mourow.

The crims was committed the latter part of last August, at the home of Monggold, who is one of the wealthiest men in that section of the country. The bow was shot in the back, and his father remained barricaded in the house with the dead body overnight, until he surrendered to a posse. He admitted his crime, and has since been in fail. He is skiy-nine years of age, and admils to the paternity of half a hundred children.
Thomas Lam, charged with killing his cousin, Frank P. Hensley, was to-day committed for the action of the grand jury by a magistrate. He will be indicted next Saturday, and the trial will probably take place during the present term of court. It is the first time in years that two murderers have been confined in the Reckingham jail at ong time.
